

KWBWA Member Spotlight

Sylvie Drader

Independent Stampin' Up! Demonstrator

www.SylvieStamps.com

Sylvie@SylvieStamps.com

Sylvie always enjoyed making things with her hands. This love of creativity was a gift from her Mom. She has always enjoyed helping women gain confidence in themselves. Sylvie is a natural teacher who takes great joy in helping others grow. In 2007 she started her business with Stampin' Up, teaching women how to make beautiful greeting cards. Sylvie has been acknowledged by her company with incentives for her persistence and passion to help others learn the craft. As an independent businesswoman working in a home office, joining KWBWA has helped Sylvie connect with other professionals, expanding her horizon and meeting new people in our community.

A volunteer and sponsor with Compassion Canada, Sylvie had the privilege of seeing firsthand how this organization helps worldwide. Perhaps it was the name that drew her to this cause, Sylvie does have a compassionate heart. She was inspired recently to take up a new hobby, a century-old sociable tradition of French lace making. Bobbin lace is one of the hobbies Sylvie learned while visiting France. Work brings great pleasure to Sylvie, however nothing holds a candle to the love of spending time with her five grandchildren. Her advice on creativity... When you give something you have made yourself, you also give a part of you.

The way you think creates the access you have to creativity and ideas. – Dana Wilde, Train your Brain